TALKS TOO MUCH, AND PRESIDENT IS DISPLEASED

about the time that the decree was entered, White House officials pointed out, Mr. McReynolds, then a special prosecutor for the government, issued a statement saying the plan proposed was a subterfuge and did not accomplish the purpose of the Sherman antitrust law. At Tuesday's Cabinet meeting, therefore, when the Attorney-General made his first suggestion to impose a progressive excise law, there was no thought in the mind of the Attorney-General, according to White House officials, that this should embody a general policy. The whole thing was intended, they said, to meet a particular emergency under particular circumstances.

It was the view of Mr. McReynolds that this was an extraordinary measure. Instead of an extraordinary occasion, the suggestion was fully discussed by other members of the Cabinet, and was regarded as worthy of consideration.

President Wilson, however, suggested that Mr. McReynolds talk it over with Charles Simmons, chairman of the Finance Committee. The Attorney-General talked with Mr. Simmons, who said he would give the suggestion consideration. The President thus far has not expressed his opinion about the measure.

MRS. AMY NUCKOLS DIES SUDDENLY

Report That She Ended Her Life With Poison Is Denied.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Atty. Gen. Clegg, June 6.—Mrs. Amy Nuckols, wife of the former racing king, was stricken with an attack of heart failure early this morning and died shortly after the arrival of Dr. E. Burton Shimer, her attending physician. The police made no investigation, after the physician had filed his report with the Bureau of Vital Statistics.

A report was circulated about the fashionable neighborhood where "The Idol Hour" her palatial residence, was located, that Mrs. Nuckols had ended her life with poison, but both Dr. Shimer and Miss Grace Smith, her housekeeper, who were present at the bedside, deny this most emphatically. About five days ago Mrs. Nuckols gained much notoriety during the sensational divorce suit brought by her husband, W. Preston Nuckols.

Vice-Chancellor Leaming granted Nuckols a divorce, and in granting it of counsel it was decided to place their two children, Muriel, aged five, and Preston, Jr., in a convent just outside Philadelphia. When the deputy sheriff appeared at the "Idol Hour" to get the children, Mrs. Nuckols gave him a trouncing and spirited Muriel away. Both were subsequently secured and placed in the institution.

A month ago she created another sensation by kidnapping her little daughter from the institution and keeping her in hiding for several days.

Hanovers Win.

Yesterday in a very interesting game, which lasted for eleven innings, the Hanovers won from the Tigers by the score of 9 to 7 in the eighth inning with two outs, the Hanovers tied the score by Stump's long drive, and won in the eleventh by Mayfield's run. The feature of the game was the superb pitching of Asher, of the Hanovers.

Score by innings:

R. H. Manchester Tigers—

0 3 1 3 0 1 0 0 0 0—8

Hanovers—

3 0 0 0 4 1 0 0 0 1—15

Batteries: Tigers—Tyree and Velsiger; Hanovers—Mayfield, White and Asher. Umpires, Crump and Brumlie.

BANK GETS BACK ITS SECURITIES

stocks. Shourds also presented the bank with $5,000 over and above the amount he had stolen as part payment of the thousands of dollars expended in searching for him.

The proceedings over, Shourds bowed to the attorneys and left the building with his wife.

He eloped to-day that Shourds used some of the stolen funds to spend abroad, and it is said he made a snug fortune. It is hinted that he is really worth more now than the money which he handed back.

It was revealed to-day that Shourds has traveled many thousands of miles since his huge theft in September, 1911. He went first to the Pacific Coast, across the Pacific to Australia, and then through the Mediterranean and to Europe.

Shourds negotiated with the bank through William Travers Jerome.

Leaving half his loot in Germany, Shourds came to the country some months ago to see if he was being "double-crossed." He became convinced that the bank officials were acting in good faith, and returned to Germany accompanied by a Burns detective.
